THESE SIX LETTERS

From New England Women

Prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Does Restore the Health of Ailing Women.

Boston, Mass.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from hemorrhages (sometimes lasting for weeks), and could get nothing to check them. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (tablet form) on Tuesday, and the following Saturday morning the hemorrhages stopped. I have taken them regularly ever since and am steadily gaining."

"I certainly think that every one who is troubled as I was should give your Compound Tablets a faithful trial, and they will find relief."—Mrs. GEORGE JURY, 302 Fifth Street, South Boston, Mass.

Letter from Mrs. Julia King, Phoenix, R.I.

Phoenix, R.I.—"I worked steady in the mill from the time I was 13 years old until I had been married a year, and I think that caused my bad feelings. I had soreness in my side near my left hip that went around to my back, and sometimes I would have to lie in bed for two or three days. I was not able to do my housework."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me wonderfully in every way. You may use my letter for the good of others. I am only too glad to do anything within my power to recommend your medicine."—Mrs. JULIA KING, Box 282, Phoenix, R.I.

Letter from Mrs. Etta Donovan, Willimantic, Conn.

Willimantic, Conn.—"For five years I suffered untold agony from female troubles causing backache, irregularities, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It was impossible for me to walk up stairs without stopping on the way. I was all run down in every way."

"I tried three doctors and each told me something different. I received no benefit from any of them but seemed to suffer more. The last doctor said it was no use for me to take anything as nothing would restore me to health again. So I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see what it would do, and by taking seven bottles of the Compound and other treatment you advised, I am restored to my natural health."—Mrs. ETTA DONOVAN, 762 Main Street, Willimantic, Conn.

Letter from Mrs. Winfield Dana, Augusta, Me.

Augusta, Me.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured the backache, headache, and the bad pain I had in my right side, and I am perfectly well."—Mrs. WINFIELD DANA, R.F.D. No. 2, Augusta, Me.

Letter from Mrs. J. A. Thompson, Newport, Vt.

Newport, Vt.—"I thank you for the great benefit Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I took eight bottles and it did wonders for me, as I was a nervous wreck when I began taking it. I shall always speak a good word for it to my friends."—Mrs. JOHN A. THOMPSON, Box 3, Newport Center, Vermont.

Letter from Miss Grace Dodds, Bethlehem, N.H.

Bethlehem, N.H.—"By working very hard, sweeping carpets, washing, ironing, lifting heavy baskets of clothes, etc., I got all run down. I was sick in bed every month."

"This last Spring my mother got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and already I feel like another girl. I am regular and do not have the pains that I did, and do not have to go to bed. I will tell all my friends what the Compound is doing for me."—Miss GRACE B. DODDS, Box 183, Bethlehem, N.H.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health. Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., CONFIDENTIAL, LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

FOUR RULES OF SELLING.

They Went With the Job the Gritty Salesman Landed.

Until some ten years ago it was an axiom in the big packing house circles of Chicago that a salesman should be guided by four rules as laid down by one of the famous heads of that industry. He was noted for his brusqueness and also a democratic nature that scorned the usual hedge of clerks that stands between a big man and his callers.

A bright manly looking chap entered the office one day when he was very busy.

"Good morning," he began politely. The packer gave him a hasty glance. "Well, what the blankety-blank do you want?" he growled.

"I want civil treatment, and I want it blankety-blank quick," came the sharp answer.

"Oh!" The packer looked up in surprise. Modulating his voice a trifle, he asked, "What can I do for you?"

"I want a job as a salesman. I have worked as a butcher, I have worked in the packing houses, and I have sold smaller lines to the meat trade. I have references to prove that I deliver the goods, and I have them with me. I want to get into a bigger field, and I am here to make good. Have you got a job open?"

"If we haven't we'll make an opening for you. Report to the sales manager Monday morning."

As the young man started to leave the office the brusque old packer called him back.

"Do you know why you got that job?" he asked.

"No, sir."

"Well, you have the three essentials that make a good salesman. I'll point them out to you, so you'll remember 'em. First, you don't think any man is better than you are, and you have the nerve to stick to it; second, you knew the good points of what you had to sell; third, you stated them in the fewest possible words. I'll add a fourth—get out before I change my mind."

THE POLE STAR.

Some of the Wonders of This Great Season of the North.

Most people, if they know nothing else of astronomy, at any rate know the pole star, the one star which seems to keep its place in the heavens with out movement of any kind. There are a great many, however, who do not know what a wonderful thing it is. In the first place, it can be seen when looked at through a good telescope to be two stars and not one. There is one fairly bright one, of what is known as the second magnitude, and another of the ninth magnitude close to it.

But that is not all. The brighter of the two is really three stars revolving round one another, or rather round their common center of gravity, like three children playing "ring a ring o' roses." This secret is revealed to us by what is perhaps the most astonishing of all scientific instruments, the spectroscope. It not only tells us what the stars are made of, but whether they are moving toward us or away from us.

When you stand facing the star you are always facing north. The reason that it does not appear to move as the others do is because it is nearly in line with the axis of the earth. Its distance from us is enormous. This can be judged from the fact that although the earth in its journey round the sun is today about 190,000,000 miles from where it was six months ago, that makes no appreciable difference to its distance from the pole star. It must therefore be many times 190,000,000 miles away.

Training Her.
Once little sister was not very well, and all day long she had been fractious and domineering. At last six-year-old Johnnie's patience came to an end. "Mother," he demanded, "don't you want sister to be a good wife like you when she's big?" "Of course, my son." "Well, then, why don't you start her right? You insist on my giving her everything she wants just because she's a girl and little's me, but you're a great deal littler'n daddy, and yet every night when he comes home you jump out of the easy chair and say: 'Here's your chair, John, dear; here's the new magazine; let me run and get your slippers.'" And before his surprised mother could frame a reply Johnnie swooped down and tore his ears from the hands of the screaming baby.

"She'll be a terrible wife if we don't begin to train her," he remarked calmly as he strode from the room, his treasures under his arm.—Ladies Home Journal.

Retort of a Bonaparte.

The former king of Westphalia, a man of wit, was one day examining an inkstand upon the table of some one we know. The writer, at whose house Jerome Bonaparte was at that moment, had brought back from a trip to the Alps, made in company with Charles Nodder, some years before, a bit of steeple serpent, carved and hollowed into an inkstand, which he had purchased of a chamois hunter of the mer de glace. Jerome Bonaparte was looking at this.

"What is it?" he asked. "My inkstand," replied the writer. Then he added: "It is steeple. Admire nature, who makes this charming green stone out of a little dirt and oxide."

"I admire much more the men," responded Jerome Bonaparte, "who make an inkstand out of this stone."

For a brother of Napoleon this was not a bad reply, and he should be credited with it, for the inkstand is to destroy the sword.—Victor Hugo.

A Foible of the Great Rachel.

"Look at the presents Rachel, the great actress, made to every one," say the panegyrists. They forget to mention that an hour afterward she regretted her generosity, and from that moment she never left off scheming how to get the things back. Every one knew this. Beauvallet, to whom she gave a magnificent sword one day, instead of thanking her said: "I'll have a chain put to it, mademoiselle, so as to fasten it to the wall of my dressing room. In that way I shall be sure that it will not disappear during my absence." Alexandre Dumas the younger, to whom she made a present of a ring, bowed low and placed it back on her finger at once. "Allow me to present it to you in my turn, mademoiselle, so as to prevent your asking for it." She did not say nay, but carried the matter with one of her fascinating smiles.—An Englishman in Paris.

Misanthropy—or Caution?

What could be more refreshing to a jaded sense of humor than this story, which the London Daily Mail tells of the greatest buttonholer in London?

On his return from a winter holiday this gentleman was telling his acquaintances at his club in Pall Mall that he had been occupying a house at Daves, not far from Mr. Labouchere, who, he added, was in a very melancholy state.

"I am truly sorry for that," said one of his hearers. "What is the matter with him?"

"Well," replied the bore, "I was out walking one day when I saw Labouchere coming down the lane toward me. The moment he caught sight of me he darted into a fir wood which was close by and hid behind a tree till I had passed. Oh, very sad, indeed!"

Naming the Boy.

Old Jun, gardener and general factotum, was accompanied one day by a bright looking lad eight or ten years old.

"Is this your boy?" I asked. "Yassuh, he mine, de las' one I got, sah. Junior, you wuffles nigger, mek you manners ter de white folks."

"Junior," I commented, "So he is named after you."

"Nawsuh," the old man replied rather indignantly. "He ain't name fuh me. My name Jumbo, whar my mammy git out'n de Bible. Dis blyh child name Junior cuz he wuz bawn in June."—Lippincott's.

Pleasant For Slithers.

"Well, Tommie," said the joyous Slithers, "you must congratulate me. I am going to marry your sister."

"Oh, thunder!" growled Tommie. "Why, Tommie!" protested Slithers. "Don't you like me?"

"Oh, yes, I like you well enough," said Tommie, "but I bet Mabel a pound of candy you wouldn't be fool enough to ask her, and she bet you would."—Harper's Weekly.

Making a Monkey of Him.

"I have hired a genealogist to look up my family tree."

"He'd better be careful."

"Why?"

"Least one of your ancestors soaks him with a nut."—New York Telegraph.

Eligible.

"The woman I marry," he said, "must be able to blush."

"Oh," she replied, "I can do that. I blush every time I am seen anywhere with you."—Exchange.

There's No Use in Arguing

If a store hasn't the right stock of hardware, paints and housefurnishings. It might as well put up its shutters and go 'way back and sit down. What the wise public demands now-a-days is—general excellence, big variety, attractive display and honest prices; a four-cornered business argument that stands for "deeds—not words." We don't THINK—we're SURE that this store is so equipped.
